

Plan For Arming West Germany Proposed Democrats Claim House-Senate Seats In 12 States

Show Greater Optimism Than GOP

INDIANAPOLIS, Sept. 19 (AP)—Optimistic Democrats said today they expect to take enough House and Senate seats away from the Republicans in 12 key states to give them control of Congress.

Democratic leaders of these states, who joined in a party campaign kickoff rally here, proved themselves much more optimistic in an Associated Press Survey than their opposite numbers of the Republican party at a recent Cincinnati rally.

The 12 states covered by the survey were New Jersey, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, Minnesota, Colorado, Idaho and California. President Eisenhower carried all of them in the 1952 presidential election.

In these states, Democratic leaders said they have a reasonable chance to pick up a net gain of 26 House and four Senate seats. Republicans, on the other hand, had claimed they would boost their House membership by 19 and gain three Senate seats.

The Senate now has 48 Republicans, 47 Democrats and one independent. In the House, there are 218 Republicans, 213 Democrats, one independent and three vacancies.

The Republicans insisted that the issues in the battle for control of Congress revolved around their slogan of "peace, progress and prosperity." The Democrats seemed likely to challenge that slogan, contending that there is no peace—only an absence of shooting war—that instead of making social progress the Eisenhower administration is drifting backward, and that prosperity is only second-rate at best.

Throughout their comments, the Democrats stressed what they said was a widespread dissatisfaction with economic conditions; what they called "disillusionment" with the Eisenhower record; alleged farm discontent, and what many of them labeled as a "mess" in foreign relations.

Democrats are just as optimistic as Republicans are gloomy over the outcome of a Senate race and House contests in New Jersey. Archibald Alexander, New Jersey national committeeman, predicted that Democratic Rep. Charles R. Howell will defeat Republican former Rep. Clifford Case by 75,000 votes in the senatorial race.

Case has been faced with some GOP opposition because he said if he were elected he would support a move to strip Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) of his Senate chairmanships.

Alexander said he thinks the compelling issue in New Jersey revolves around what he called "scandals" of former Republican office holders. He said he thinks the Democrats will pick up one House seat to even up the present lineup of eight Republicans and six Democrats.

John M. Golden said Democratic prospects are booming in Connecticut. He is the state's Democratic national committeeman.

Mayor David Lawrence of Pittsburgh, Democratic national committeeman for Pennsylvania, said he thinks his party will elect the next governor in George M. Leader, who is opposing Republican Lloyd H. Wood.

Ike Extends Vacation To Tackle Trout

FRASER, Colo., Sept. 19 (AP)—President Eisenhower decided today to prolong his Rocky Mountain vacation an extra day—and perhaps make another try for "Big Boy," an elusive trout which reportedly weighs about five pounds.

The temperature skidded to nine degrees above zero at the President's fishing camp last night but he took a quick look at the bright sun on climbing out of bed this morning and notified his aides he wanted another day here before returning to the summer White House in Denver.

Attend Banquet

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 19 (AP)—A banquet today highlighted the 46th quadrennial convention of the Polish Roman Catholic Union.

TWO-CAR SMASHUP on Wooddale Road at 2:30 p.m. yesterday caused about $550 damage to these vehicles. Stroudsburg State police identified drivers as William E. Widmer, 29 and Marland G. Halterman, 24, both of East Stroudsburg RD2. Halterman was treated for a chin cut at General Hospital. Investigation is continued. State Trooper Weber is in charge. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Treasury To Borrow Only Part Of Cash It Needs And Keep New Bonds On Short Term

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—The Treasury's announcement over the weekend that it will disclose new borrowing plans Monday has alerted the money markets to a long awaited fall borrowing. Earlier expectations that this would include a new long term bond have evaporated.

Following visits to the Treasury late last week of advisory committees from the banking and investment world, called in advance of each Treasury financing, two changes appear to be in prospect from earlier plans for the fall financing.

The first is that the Treasury may not, and probably will not, borrow at this time all the 6 1/2 billion dollars extra cash it needs to pay its bills through next June, when the current fiscal year ends.

The second is that there now appears to be little prospect for a genuinely long term new bond issue at this time.

Both changes are linked, according to the best available information, to:

1. Last week's announcement the government now estimates it will run a deficit of 4 1/2 billion dollars this fiscal year instead of the previously anticipated nearly 3 billion, and

2. To the fact that since last year the economy has poised almost unchanged, slightly above the low point of the downturn that started in mid 1953.

Treasury spokesmen have been saying since last spring the government will need to borrow about 10 billion dollars in the last half of this year. The increase in the prospective deficit probably will not affect this amount much because the bigger deficit is chiefly due to a fall in receipts expected next spring.

But the increase does mean, since the government's income will be less by the end of the year than previously expected, that a greater part of this year's borrowing must be in more "permanent" form than tax anticipation certificates issued against spring tax receipts.

Most of the anticipated borrowing is for the purpose of footing the government's bills during the summer and fall period of low tax receipts, with the borrowing to be paid off next spring at the high point of tax receipts. With receipts expected to be about the same, but less of it will be repaid in the spring.

But Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey has announced his intention to reduce the new deficit forecast of 4 1/2 billion dollars. If he succeeds in squeezing spending down enough to lower the red ink estimate, total borrowing of a more than temporary nature could be narrowed.

There is plainly evident a desire at the Treasury to avoid any action which would draw blame to it would be the business situation worsen.

Tornado Sweeps Dushore

DUSHORE, Pa., Sept. 19 (AP)—A brief but violent tornado swept through this rural region of north-central Pennsylvania tonight, knocking out power lines and damaging some farms.

Telephone lines were down in this tiny community of 739 persons. A silo and several trees were blown over on the nearby farm of Nelson Zehner and another farm suffered extensive damage at nearby Estelle.

Dushore is in Sullivan County, famous for its rolling farm land and wooded hills where the popular resort of Eagles Mere is located.

Flanders In New Attack On McCarthy

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt.), author of a resolution to censure Sen. McCarthy, charged today the Wisconsin senator's tactics "appear to parallel those of the Communists."

In another of a series of letters to Sen. Watkins (R-Utah), chairman of a special committee considering censure charges against McCarthy, Flanders wrote:

"Lenin's phrase, 'the end sanctifies the means,' might well be quoted to describe the junior senator's (McCarthy's) own explanation of his methods."

Flanders said his lengthy letter, the fourth to be released over the weekend, was intended to supply the special bipartisan committee with further information in support of his charges that McCarthy had abused his power as chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee.

McCarthy's office said he was not available to comment on it. The Watkins committee concluded public hearings last Monday and two of its members, Sens. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) and Case (R-SD), said a report on its findings may be finished in the week ahead.

If it is, Case said the Senate could be called back Sept. 27 to act on Flanders' resolution to condemn McCarthy's conduct as unbecoming a senator and as tending to bring the Senate into disrepute.

However, neither Republican Leader Knowland of California nor Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas has indicated when the Senate will be reconvened once the committee's report is ready.

Flanders, referring in detail to McCarthy's activities as chairman of the investigations subcommittee, contended among other things that the record showed "a crass disregard for accuracy and security in the almost frenzied haste to keep the press supplied with rumors, alarms, predictions, threats and denunciations."

He said "witnesses were called about whose identities there were doubts and sometimes errors; the rights of witnesses were trampled on and guilt by association seemed to be the new rule; on flimsy or irrelevant information a lifelong reputation would be denounced via television while the defense would have a difficult or impossible time getting the rebuttal into the record."

"One might reasonably raise a question as to exactly what the junior senator's goal might be," Flanders said, "since his avowed anti-Communist purposes have long been obscured by his attacks upon the leaders of our government, the Army and respected patriots in many walks of American life."

However, wrote Flanders, "it was not his breaches of etiquette, or rules, or sometimes even of laws, which is so disturbing. It was his breach of society, his threat to the very traditions and foundations of our orderly Democratic procedures which makes the conduct of Mr. McCarthy so all-embracing in its gravity."

Mansion House, Kresgeville Damaged By Fire Which Hits Lower Floors Of Structure

KRESGEVILLE—Fire of undetermined origin swept through part of Mansion House hotel here early last night. No one was injured. There were no guests at the hotel. The owners, Mr. and Mrs. Julian Rake, were away at the time of the fire.

The blaze in the 3 1/2-story hotel was discovered at 5:30 p. m. by two young girls and a neighbor.

The two girls—Carole Johnson and Charlotte George—were walking past the hotel when they observed smoke pouring from the building. Stanley Serfass, who lives next door to the Mansion House, called the Trachsville Fire Co. to the scene.

Trachsville firemen inspected the building. Smoke prevented immediate entry. The firemen notified Kunkelton Fire Co. that assistance was needed.

Leighton Fire Co. was also called a short time later. Firemen were still uncertain whether there were any persons in the hotel at that time.

Only near-casualty of the fire was "Breezy," the Rakes pet dog. Firemen spotted the dog on the upper front porch of the hotel after he barked and whined as smoke poured from the second story.

Fireman Willie Burger climbed a post on the front part of the building and brought the dog down, observers said.

The fire had been extinguished when Leighton firemen arrived on the scene. Inspection of the building revealed that smoke had badly damaged most of the hotel. Fire damage was confined largely to the first floor of the building. The bar room was gutted by flames, firemen said.

Palmerton ambulance was called to the scene to assist in providing aid for any persons in the building. When the Rakes returned, however, firemen were notified that no persons were in the hotel.

Firemen had already set up an emergency lighting system to aid in searching the building for human beings.

Firemen praised the quick thinking of the three persons responsible for reporting the fire. Carole Johnson is a fourth grade student at Polk school. Charlotte George is a senior in Polk High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Rake were slated to spend the night with neighbors last night. No estimate of damages caused to the hotel was available, firemen said.

Mansion House is located on Route 209 in Kresgeville. The Rakes acquired ownership of the building this year.

Ralph Strohl, chief of the Trachsville Fire Co. was in charge of the operations at the fire scene last night.

Nationalist Planes Strike At Reds; Check Communist Warships Reported Nearby

TAIPEI, Formosa, Monday, Sept. 20 (AP)—Nationalist planes struck new bases yesterday at shipping along the Red China coast and kept a wary eye on Communist warships southeast of Shanghai.

The Nationalists claimed their gunboats had destroyed at least 26 other smaller military craft in raids off Fukien, the mainland province opposite Formosa.

Interior Ministry sources, which claim underground contacts on the mainland, said the Reds have moved warships from North China to Chushan Island, southeast of Shanghai, since outbreak of the vest pocket war in the Quemoy area Sept. 3.

Reports were that these included a 1,400-ton destroyer, the Cheng Chi, and seven gunboats. Sources here believe the Reds might possibly be planning an invasion of the Tachen Islands, 200 miles south of Shanghai and the same distance northwest of Formosa.

Meanwhile, there were signs that 17 straight days of Nationalist attacks on Red-held Amoy, directly west across Formosa Strait, have crippled it as a coastal trading center. Its trade now is reported being handled through Swatow, 120 miles southwest.

It was from Amoy that the Reds opened the vest pocket war Sept. 3 with artillery shelling of Quemoy Island, seven miles away. Both Quemoy and the Tachen Islands are Nationalist outposts guarding Formosa.

Nationalist warships continue patrols north and south of Amoy in search of Communist ships.

Some quarters think the vest pocket war will settle down to recurrent skirmishes and will not develop into large-scale hostilities.

Mendes-France Sends Ideas To All Allies

NEVERS, France, Sept. 19 (AP)—Premier Pierre Mendes-France announced today he has transmitted to other Allied governments a new plan for arming West Germany within the Western family. He hinted it calls for strict limitation and equality in armaments.

Dedicating a monument to Frenchmen who resisted the Germans during the 1940-44 occupation of France, he said:

"I made it clear during my conversations with (British Foreign Secretary) Anthony Eden that our points of view were not far apart or irreconcilable."

"The French government has made, in that spirit, precise proposals which now are in the hands of the interested nations and of which I will speak more tomorrow at the Council of Europe with more detail than I can give today."

Mendes-France indicated this proposed substitute for the defunct European Defense Community treaty went beyond the military sphere into economic affairs.

"It is important," he said, "that everybody in France and outside France should know that the military problems are only one aspect of the question. They are not, by far, the most interesting or the most important in our eyes."

He emphasized that France wanted a reconciliation with Germany and insisted that any organization of Europe must include Britain.

But he scoffed at any who think Europe can be organized without France, saying "no useful plan can be set up without us."

"The head of the government has the duty to state that today without equivocation," Mendes-France said.

There has been some unconfirmed talk that the United States and Britain might act independently if France balks at the current efforts to arm West Germany and raise her to sovereignty.

Patino Family Returns Child To Goldsmith

PARIS, Sept. 19 (AP)—The tin-rich Patino family, bowing to a court order, today returned frail 4-month-old Isabella Goldsmith to her father, British hotel heir James Goldsmith. She arrived in a downpour under a red umbrella.

The infant's return ended a four-day battle 21-year-old Goldsmith had waged with his late wife's family for custody of the child. He charged Wednesday the little girl had been "kidnaped" when he returned from a business trip to West Africa and found his baby and nurse were not at the hotel apartment of the child's grandmother, Mrs. Antenor Patino, in fashionable Versailles. The child had been staying with the grandmother while the father was away.

Mrs. Patino countered with a custody suit, but the court yesterday directed the Patinos to give little Isabella back to her father.

A motcade of two limousines and a dozen policemen escorted the tiny baby back to the Goldsmith apartment. As it halted, the nurse, Miss Dorothy Cockbill, stepped out of one of the cars with the infant. The Marchioness De Ginori, sister of Mrs. Patino, held a large red umbrella over them for the few steps from the street to the apartment.

Photographers were not permitted to take closeups of the child. Goldsmith had asked them to stand back because of the baby's health. Isabella is suffering from anoxemia, an oxygen deficiency of the blood attributed to her caesarean birth last May 14 only a few hours before her mother, 18-year-old Isabella Patino Goldsmith, died of a brain tumor.

Later, Goldsmith called in reporters and told them the Patinos had kept the baby hidden by threatening Miss Cockbill. He said she intended to take her story to the police tomorrow; that the Patinos threatened to fire her if she attempted to let Goldsmith know where his daughter was hidden.

Goldsmith wooed and won little Isabella's mother in a whirlwind courtship which met bitter opposition from the bride's father, Antenor Patino of the Bolivian tin family.

Leader Says He'll Revamp State's PUC

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 19 (P)—State Sen. George M. Leader promised today that if elected governor he will press for a new Public Utility Commission law under which "the people will be given a break."

"In my administration," the Democratic candidate said, "unlike the political favoritism of former years, it will not be a one way street for any utility that builds tremendous profits by monopolistic practices which do violence to the rights of the people."

He declared that not only will the people be "given a break" but that "utilities, in turn, will be allowed a fair return on investment, based on the nature of the service rendered."

The commission, appointed by the governor, regulates utility company rates.

"As governor," Leader promised, "I will press for enactment of a new PUC law under which the people will be given a break by establishment of fair and equitable rates in relation to the service provided by utilities."

He added that imposition of what he called high power rates, has "practically ruined the textile industry and thrown thousands of persons out of work."

"My Republican opponent looks rather silly trying to dress up the PUC as the fairy godmother of Pennsylvania industry."

Leader charged the PUC "has done more to drive industry out of Pennsylvania than any other single factor. This is one of the inescapable indictments of Republican administration under Gov. John S. Fine."

The York County farmer turned down an offer of Republican State Sen. John M. Walker to debate campaign issues, saying, "...I suspect he (Walker) is grandstanding as usual." Leader again called upon Lt. Gov. Lloyd H. Wood, his GOP opponent for governor, to take part in such a debate.

Wood declined a previous offer to debate on the grounds that he would not let Leader run his campaign for him (Wood).

Meanwhile, Democratic women party workers are ready for the first of a series of county workshop conferences tomorrow at the Washington County Courthouse in Washington, Pa.

"The rising sentiment for the Democratic party in all sections of Pennsylvania is amazing proof that people everywhere are thoroughly disgusted with management of state government under Republican rule," said Mrs. Ruth Grigg Horning, vice chairman of the Democratic State Committee, who will direct the conferences.

Mendes-France Sends Ideas To Allies

"It is very clear that Western Europe cannot be organized without the assistance of France," said Mendes-France, whose opposition to various clauses of the EDC treaty was a factor in the treaty's death Aug. 30 in the French Assembly.

"The role belonging to us in that respect is not asked, or begged as a favor or as a mark of sympathy."

At the same time Mendes-France said this nation must take into account the attitude of its Allies—"with whom we wish, without hesitation, to maintain solidarity"—and called for the continued confidence of those Allies.

"The participation of England in the construction of Europe constitutes a decisive element for success," he said. "It requires a search for formulas acceptable to our British Allies. That is not easy, I know, but I must tell you that the latest conferences have shown that it is possible."

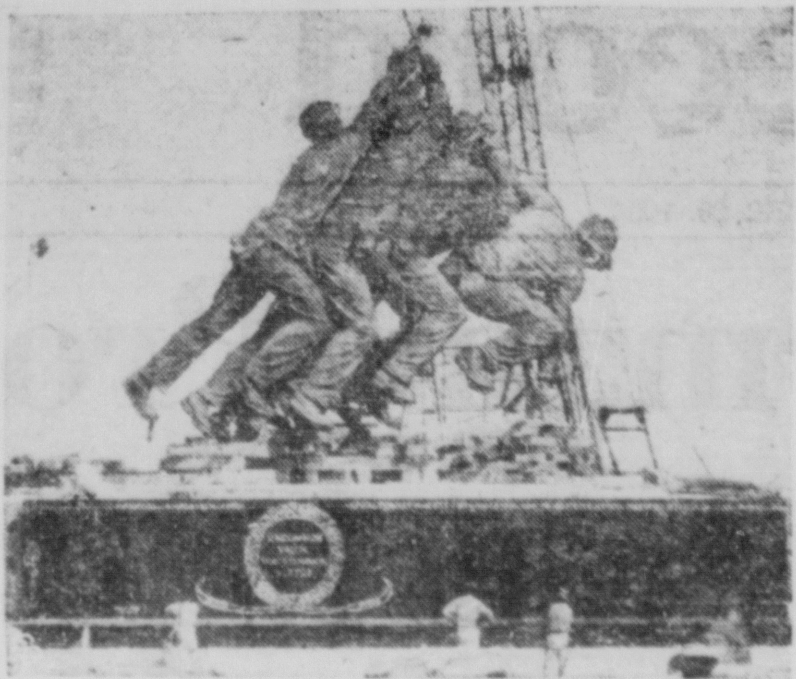

He continued: "That participation is indispensable, among other things, to dissipate all prejudice and to create a climate of full confidence. Confidence will come particularly from an agreement among Europeans on organization of an effective system for strict limitation and stern and equal control of armaments, the essential element in all peaceful construction on the European continent."

Discussing the nonmilitary phases of European organization, the premier said the advantages of wider markets needed no demonstration.

"Very soon we shall take constructive measures in that direction," he said, but added that it involved certain protective steps.

"I will not try to conceal that any declaration of principle in favor of the construction of Europe would be simply vain words if France could not be put quickly in a position to confront the peaceful competition of her partners. That (she must) do through improvement of her interior economy and by an accompanying economic modernization in the countries of the French Union."

In large measure he blamed Cabinets which preceded his own for France's lagging industrially behind other nations, and blamed them also for misleading the Allied powers with a promise of ratification of the EDC which he insisted "never had a chance."

ALL OF THE MARINES on the two Jima flag-raising statue are now in place on the Virginia side of the Potomac River, as shown above. The only parts missing are the mountain and the flag. Dedication of the memorial will be made on the Marine Corps anniversary, Nov. 10.

U.S. Believes Only Germany Can Plug Holes

By TOM REEDY

BONN, Germany, Sept. 19 (P)—The United States has apparently decided that only restoration of sovereignty to the West Germans now can plug the European wall against Soviet-Communist ambition.

The declaration, voiced by Secretary of State John Foster Dulles in Bonn four days ago, has started an international guessing game. The question is: What is sovereignty? Nobody seems to offer a definition and it may well be that the persons most interested in one are the Soviets.

Dulles and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer used the phrase "German sovereignty" without any qualifications or waterdown adjectives.

The giant power facing the nine-power conference in London on or about Sept. 28 thus will be just what Dulles and Adenauer mean by sovereignty in exchange for a German contribution to the European military machine.

If they follow the factual definition of sovereignty, it means Adenauer's 50 million West Germans would have "supreme jurisdiction... supreme power" over their own affairs. That in turn means Bonn would be free to dicker with Moscow or anyone else in the world.

The Bonn Republic, functioning under the eyes of the American, British and French High Commissions, presently is restricted in many fields. Without Allied approval, it may not:

1. Negotiate with foreign powers on economic or political questions.
2. Engage in scientific research, such as atomic energy.
3. Design or produce military weapons for its own use.
4. Change its own Constitution.
5. Exercise powers over World War 2 restitution cases or reparations.
6. Get back into the civil aviation business, much less military airpower.
7. Withhold information and statistics on its own industrial development, down to the details of exactly what is being produced in the factories and mills.

Above all, the West Germans may do no clandestine business with the Communist East.

"Sovereignty," say some, including the powerful Socialist opposition, means that all these curbs would be lifted. It also means, they contend, that the Allies would even give up their rights—written into the so-called peace contract—to step in at any time, declare martial law, and take over the government again in time of crisis.

No one really expects the West Germans to get back all of these powers just yet. There is some doubt, in fact, whether the Adenauer government wants all of them—just yet.

The conclusion then becomes one of defining sovereignty, or at least finding another word for West German status should the Bonn regime be integrated in some purely Western alliance.

U. N. Trip Reservations Still Needed

WHEN LILLIAN Stark first announced a special trip to the United Nations designed for adults this past Summer, enthusiasm ran high.

Last night, Miss Stark, who is Social Studies instructor at the Stroudsburg High School, said "a lot of people seem to have changed their minds."

Unless more local adults announce their interest in the Oct. 5 U.N. trip sometime this week, Miss Stark said, the trip may have to be cancelled. Reservations at the U.N. must be in by "Thursday or Friday of this week," Miss Stark said.

The adult trip—which is available to all Monroe County residents who are adults—will begin at 6:45 a.m. Tuesday, Oct. 5. The group will leave from Stroudsburg by chartered bus, Miss Stark said.

Plans call for attending the morning U.N. session, having lunch in the U.N. dining room and then—if enough people attend—a visit with an important U.N. delegate from India or some other nation, Miss Stark said.

Anyone—your need not be a parent, Miss Stark said—may go on the trip. To make reservations county residents should call Miss Stark at her home phone number, Delaware Water Gap 3073 after 7 p.m. or at Stroudsburg High School during the day.

A Code For Campaigns

The national chairmen of the Republicans and the Democrats have pledged their parties to a code of fair play in the congressional campaigns. The pledge will be sent to every one of the 1,047 candidates for congressional seats by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee which is made up of volunteer Americans, prominent in our national life.

No attempts will be made to police its observance, the committee announces, except publicizing the names of those who pledge themselves to observe the "basic principles of decency, honesty and fair play." Actually, there is no policing that the committee could attempt. This is the prerogative of the American voter at the polls on Election Day.

In this concrete sense, this voluntary code cannot mean very much. How, for instance, can it stop a super-heated candidate from deliberately resorting to personal vilification, whispering campaigns, unjustifiably impugning the loyalty of his opponent or attempting to arouse racial and religious prejudices?

But the conscience of America cannot be violated with impunity, as voters have proved to reckless candidates time and again on Election Day.

Ticket To Jail

Traffic violators in New York City will hereafter take seriously their obligations to appear in court or wind up in jail.

Chief Magistrate Murtagh is the author of the above statement and with good cause. He has had before him recently innumerable cases of scofflaw drivers who ignore traffic summonses until caught. Latest case was of a woman who pocketed 24 such tickets before the law finally caught up with her. She is now doing a 60-day stretch in the workhouse.

The custom of scoffing at the law is prevalent not only in New York City. It is practiced on a smaller scale in other communities.

Magistrate Murtagh has hit on what should prove to be an effective policy to deal with these scofflaws.

The Other Cheek

Senator Byrd of Virginia has accused the Federal Housing Administration of "turning the other cheek." He said the FHA is doing business with the same builders who helped scandalize the agency with their "windfall" profits.

He also complains that the Justice Department is not prosecuting all the "profiteers and malfesants" who have been involved in the housing scandals.

We also know that the new housing officials did little or nothing about cleaning up the housing abuses, or punishing those responsible, until Senator Byrd and Sen. John J. Williams of Delaware built a bonfire under them.

Whatever the basis for Senator Byrd's charges, it seems to us the present housing bosses are being less than forthright.

George Sokolsky Says...

McCarthy Believes Permanent Group Will Continue To Investigate Him

Is the Senate going to appoint a permanent committee to investigate Joe McCarthy? The Senator apparently thinks so and he assumes that Senator Flanders intends to persist in his lambasting for him assisted by the National Committee for an Effective Congress.

The Watkins Committee has had its day and has produced nothing that can be called a judicial atmosphere, or a Congressional hearing that is similar to a court of law, unless it be the household courtroom of a Justice of the Peace where the testimony is given lightly and in a hurry, so the aforesaid Justice can go about his private business. Or maybe, it was intended to be like some of the magistrates courts of my childhood where the verdict was arranged before the evidence was in.

There used to be a saloon-keeper in our neighborhood, who was known as "Silver Dollar" Smith. He was a Democrat by profession and a purveyor of alcoholic refreshments for good-fellowship. His principal business was to arrange for verdicts in the ancient Essex Market Court which he did to perfection. Once "Silver Dollar" Smith decided what the Court would do, the Court did it. He got his name because the floor of his saloon was paved with genuine silver dollars, and the men who came there for justice only had to look at the floor to realize what had to be done. They did it. So did the Court.

What verdict can the Watkins Committee give about Joe McCarthy? In effect, he was never permitted to put in a complete defense. Maybe his defense for using violent language was no defense at all, but he was never allowed to say it as he and his counsel chose to pay it. Perhaps the Watkins Committee feared that if Joe McCarthy were permitted to put up a fight for himself, their ears would suffer the violence of his language.

I have read millions of words of Congressional hearings, particularly those before the McCarthy Committee, but I never came across incidents where Joe gavelled down a lawyer for a spy or a Communist and told the client that neither he nor his lawyer could state their case. True, Joe has thrown some witnesses out of the Hearing Room, but that was because the witness was clearly contemptuous of the United States and its Congress, and usually it came after the witness had howled out, as vituperatively as he could, the chairman of the McCarthy Committee, namely, the redoubtable Joe himself. But I have never read in the transcript that Joe ever told a witness or his lawyer that a constitutional question need not be discussed because the committee had already made up its mind about it.

If the Watkins Committee decides that McCarthy should be censured or not censured, or if it makes no decision but leaves it to the Senate, the conduct of the trial has been such that large segments of the people will be dissatisfied. For instance, the Zwicker testimony was wholly unsatisfactory. General Zwicker could, at the original McCarthy hearings, have testified that he had no alternative but not to testify under his orders. Why was Zwicker so obscure in what he had to say at that time, yet not in his private conversation with James Juliana? Obviously there was a clash of personalities in which the General does not come off an angel in uniform nor the Senator as the devil incarnate. And is this the first Senatorial hearing at which a General has clashed with a Senator and harsh words passed?

Besides, what makes a General any different from any other American? I think that this question must be raised. Titles, rank, even medals ought to play no part in the search for the truth. A Congressional committee is not a court of law, but Senator Watkins announced in advance that his committee would conduct itself as such. Therefore, before his committee, a General and a private must be equal. Neither may be believed in preference to the other because of title or rank.

The Zwicker incident may open the question as to whether we are in the Prussia of the Hohenzollern where the military were the supermen. Surely, such an attitude is not for the United States.

And so, we shall await the next investigation of Senator Joe McCarthy.

It is estimated that about $10 million is stolen from banks by employees every year.

farther with more politeness, but it favors censure for clamor-uppers. Reds in sensitive places and defiant witnesses rather than censure of U. S. Senators who don't know how to relax and get hot and bothered about Communists. To us a highlight of the hearing was the admission at long last by General Zwicker that he "most emphatically" expressed an opinion against the promotion and honorable discharge of a dentist known to have refused to sign the loyalty questionnaire. "My personal opinion," he testified, "was very much against changing the grade of this man or giving him an honorable discharge, regardless of how it was accomplished." Well, this was all that McCarthy was trying to find out last February and it made Joe pretty impatient. (We can't help wondering if less impatience is felt by fathers and mothers of American kids in the Armed Services—some of them long in combat who got no promotion and no fast discharges, despite the fact they were willing to sign loyalty papers anywhere anytime under any circumstances.) P. S. Has anybody yet found out just how the dentist got zipped from captain to major and why an HONORABLE discharge was slipped him a day after the facts began coming out? If General Zwicker most emphatically expressed disapproval, what's the rest of the story? Top secret, you say?

Program Well Lost

Keeping the Watkins Senate Committee hearings off the air was the greatest break TV and radio fans have ever had. It was like telling radio audiences they couldn't have a rerun of the Eskimos on the old ginger-ale hour or denying to TV fans complete coverage of a demonstration of sleeping pills. The committee was chosen from Senators least likely to attract a second look and bearing credentials to certify they were as immune to black and white TV as to color.

This was one Senate committee hearing that couldn't have held the airwave audience even if it had put Bertie, Godfrey, Benny and Durand on the panel. Not even Betty Hutton or Willie Mays could have saved it from a showmanship viewpoint. From the opening ten minutes it was clear that, as a TV attraction, it could not stand up as a rival to "How To Bake A Cake," the earliest western or the late, late, late weather forecaster. A vote of thanks for exclusion is due from all TV and radio fans.

We asked a TV addict who attended one day's hearings "How did it come out?" and got the answer "This can set dullness back one hundred years." The members of the committee made the point that in keeping "To Censure Or Not To Censure" or "Running Joe Through The Winger" off the air it was taking a firm stand for dignity and decorum. That must be what the Athletics and Pirates were taking a firm stand for all season.

It was the only setup in which Joe McCarthy could have been made to seem obscure if not AWOL. Even the probes acted as if under an injunction from the Anti-Entertainment League. McCarthy was charged with unnecessary roughness, using the bean ball, backing up without signaling, parking too close to Fort Monmouth, undue perseverance, getting too excited about a general who was pretty evasive about an alleged Commie in the Armed Services and operating a road-runner without pneumatic tires and music. It can go hard with him. We fear these punishments.

1. Loss of his probing license and a year's probation in care of Secretary Stevens.

2. A six-months sentence as doorman in the office of the army dentist who wouldn't say whether he was a Commie or not and refused to sign the army form certifying that he was a loyal American.

This column thinks McCarthy is needlessly rough at times, blows his stack too often and could get

Looking At Life

—by Erich Brandeis

World Cares Little For Past Performances Today

You may or may not have read a dispatch from Brighton, England, reporting the death of Ruth Frances De Normann, the 30-year-old actress.

It isn't a pretty story, but I suppose items like that are of interest, just to remind us every once in a while how short fame can be and how uncertain life is.

Under the name of Ruth Bower, she was quite a star of the English stage in the 1920's. I guess she could never get over those affluent years, when the future looked rosy and the past did not matter.

She was found dead in a squalid house in the town of Brighton. Authorities say that she accidentally burned to death when she suffered a heart attack while smoking in bed. She was found beneath a window near her burning bed. She lay in a threadbare nightgown on an expensive Persian rug, littered with empty sardine cans.

The few people who knew her say that she wrote big checks and kept garbage in her parlor, that she ate bread crusts but drank champagne.

Authorities believe that she came originally from the United States. They found letters from a sister-in-law in San Francisco and from a boy in the United States Army, believed to be her son.

Her second husband was reported to be living in South Africa and is said to be a brother of Sir Eric de Normann, deputy secretary of the Ministry of Works. She was separated from her husband and apparently had little to do with her family. Her last remembered appearance on the stage was in "The Verger" which played on the London stage in 1925.

So now Ruth Frances de Normann is gone. Once feted and admired, she went alone to her last resting place—a penniless, forgotten woman.

Not a very pleasant story, is it? And yet that same story can be repeated a hundredfold.

The average actor and actress nowadays is much wiser than his or her predecessor of the twenties. New York and Hollywood bank accounts are bulging with the money of Thespians who have the wisdom to lay by for that rainy day which is bound to come when they have passed their zenith and when the world has forgotten them.

Fame is a very short-lived thing. Glory soon loses its shine unless it is refurbished day after day.

And that does apply not only to actors but to every walk of life. You hear men and women, advanced in years, talk so much about their past successes. You hear them talk about their ancestors and their great family background.

The world cares very little about past performances—the grocer, the butcher, the baker want to be paid TODAY.

Ruth Frances de Normann drank yesterday's champagne and ate today's bread crusts. She wrote big checks on a non-existing account. She died in a threadbare nightgown on a Persian rug.

I don't know whether the dispatch was exaggerated. So many of them that come from abroad are.

But even if the story were not true at all, even if this woman were only an allegory, it certainly ought to give us a few moments' food for thought.

Salvador Dali refused to come to America with his wife Gala until Carosse Crosby, Boston socialite and collector, agreed to shepherd them. They sailed with Dali bundled up in sweaters in a third-class cabin near the engine room. "I stay here," he explained, "so that I'll get ready quicker."

He was packed and ready to leave the ship long before they steamed past the Statue of Liberty. When reporters came aboard, Carosse told them about Dali. None of them had heard of him, but one looked at his canvases and even Carosse was all but forgotten. "A portrait of my wife," announced Dali in French. "What's that on her shoulders?" asked a pop-eyed reporter. "Lamb chops," said Dali. That did it. Next morning Dali and his lamb chops and "mulling watches" hit the headlines. Carosse, for possibly the only time in her life, was relegated to a footnote on page nine.

Don't Put Blind Faith In Experts In Atomic Field

Robert S. Allen is on vacation. During his absence his column today is by a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, Atomic Commissioner Thomas E. Murray discusses the vitally important subject of "Don't Leave Atomic Energy To The Experts." Commissioner Murray's is a timely and interesting article in a digest of more complete comments on this question.

By THOMAS E. MURRAY
Commissioner, U. S. Atomic Energy Commission

Washington — The recent exposure of the great "Pitdown" hoax in Sussex, England, revealed how for many years an amateur expert had made monkeys out of scientists with the jawbone of an ape.

This collapse of a prominent scientific house of cards makes it timely to consider the dangers of the growing tendency, in our increasingly complex world, to leave all manner of problems to the experts. This is especially true in the case of atomic energy affairs.

How did this state of affairs develop?

Some seven years ago, Congress wrestled with the problem of finding a governmental harness for the war-born giant, atomic energy, and for the facilities, technology, and organizations developed during the war to master it. It was recognized that the implications of this great natural force were so radical that a new type of government expertise and independence was needed. In the public and Congressional debates it quickly became clear that the most significant aspect of the atomic energy problem was the large area of the unknown. The Atomic Energy Act of 1946, setting up an independent civilian commission, to control the atomic program, was an excellent solution of, at least, the organizational problem.

But since the Act was passed, back in 1946, there have been great changes. The area of the unknown has been steadily shrinking in the face of Commission-sponsored programs on a broad front. Atomic energy has been developed so rapidly that it is now the known, rather than the unknown, which is the great cause for world concern.

The governmental technique implicit in the Act was to leave the nuclear field to the "experts." This has had the great advantage of helping to keep the atomic energy program out of politics. But I would add that it is to the great credit of American politicians that those opportunities for the usual political pressures, which continue to exist in spite of the independent organization of atomic energy work, have been greatly ignored in the atomic field.

But this leaving of atomic energy problems to the experts has not been without its great disadvantages. It has tended to make of atomic energy a thing apart—a thing which has been and continues to be to most government administrators "none of their business."

This attitude was made easier by the heritage of unprecedented secrecy surrounding the program from the start. Extreme wartime security measures set a pattern which, to this day, tends to keep atomic information in the hands of comparatively few in government.

No man could have given more support to the atomic energy program than Harry S. Truman. Prudently and courageously, he disregarded the voices of those opposed to increasing our program to the utmost. And yet this modest man, only a few days after becoming a private citizen, could say, "I am not convinced the Russians have achieved the know-how to put the complicated mechanism together to make an A-bomb work. I am not convinced they have the bomb." I think this clearly indicates a failure on the part of the experts to really get across to him the full import of the atomic facts. But, I believe, combined with this failure was an over-complete reliance by Mr. Truman on his atomic experts while he was in office.

I point to this example to show that access to information alone is not the complete answer. Management of America in the atomic years ahead demands full understanding of the facts of atomic life by all our top officials.

We must get away from the horse and buggy days of only a few years ago, when atomic energy, although admitted by everyone to be essential, was considered so secret, so self-sufficient and so adequately cared for that top governmental administrators did not have to concern themselves with it, except in a most general way.

In recent years, it has frequently been pointed out, and with some alarm, that military men are taking a much larger role in the civilian affairs of government than ever before in American history. Yet even with this trend, which, I believe, is quite healthy and natural after a great war, I suggest that never before has the gap between the statesman and the military man been so great. Never before has the difference between peace and war been so absolute.

Campaign Code Of Ethics

—by H. G. Heller

The Fair Campaign Practices Committee, Inc., of New York City has contacted every candidate for office in the national field in an effort to enlist their support in this unique new project of "fair" campaigns for office.

Heading this group as honorary chairman is Owen J. Roberts with noted clergymen and laymen as co-sponsors of a movement which has as its avowed platform:

"The Fair Campaign Practices Committee is in no way partisan with the partisan aspects of this campaign. It will not condemn or seek to coerce candidates who, for any reason, do not sign our pledge, and it will not attempt to adjudicate any disputes. It intends only to set a standard of fair campaign practices which the public and the overwhelming majority of candidates will freely accept, and to which all others may be persuaded."

The code of fair campaign practices submitted to candidates is:

I shall conduct my campaign in best American tradition, discussing the issues as I see them, present my record and policies with sincerity and frankness, and criticizing without fear or favor the record and policies of my opponent and his party which merit criticism.

I shall defend and uphold the right of every qualified American voter to fill and equal participation in electoral process.

I shall condemn use of personal vilification, character defamation, whispering campaigns, libel, slander, or scurrilous attacks on any candidate or his personal or family life.

I shall condemn use of campaign material of any sort which misrepresents, distorts, or otherwise falsifies the facts regarding any candidate.

I shall condemn any appeal to prejudice based on race, creed, or national origin.

I shall condemn any dishonest or unethical practice which tends to corrupt or undermine our American system of free elections or which hampers full and free expression of the will of the voters.

I shall immediately and publicly repudiate the support of any individual or group which resorts, on behalf of my candidacy, to the methods and tactics which I condemn.

Leaders of both major parties recently wholeheartedly endorsed the work of the committee at a press conference in Washington last Tuesday.

Whether candidates sign the pledge or not their actions are likely to be judged by the voters on the standards set up by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

The Broadway Lights

First-Nights: Tallulah Bankhead (after a 5-year absence) was welcomed back to the Broadway stage. She returned in a farce named "Dear Charles" which may very likely be re-titled "Dear T. A. L. L. U. H." since the script plays 2nd Fiddle to her virtuoso performance. Brooks Atkinson (the N. Y. Times' dailyness) dismissed the play as "sluggish" and blessed the star's "gusto and wit."

"Hayride," a Hilbilly revue, peddled its corn at the 48th Street barn. The city-slickers were generally kind to the folksy-folksy carnival from down Richmond way. Zeke McCath (of the Journal-American-Bugle) told Ye Ed: "I enjoyed myself."

... Three pioneers will stick their chins out this week. Six productions are rehearsing; 14 are being readied for Autumn. Among the newcomers are four musicals. Including "Salt Sticks" ... Cole Porter's 25th show.

In the Wings: Topic A in Sardi's was "Dear Charles" and the tributes the star got despite the tepid tale. "That proves again what a fine actress Miss Bankhead is," a fan observed. "The talented ones don't need a play—just an audience." When Marilyn's skirts flew up in that movie street scene, a fellow in the crowd broke through the police lines and ran. "Where do you think you're going?" yelled a cop. "I'm going home," was the show-stopper, "and kill my wife."

Stairway to the Stars: Ruth

Gordon received ecstatic notices from the British press in Thornton Wilder's "The Matchmaker" at the Edinburgh Festival. Over here it was titled "The Merchant of Yonkers." Josephine Hull's replacement in "Cadillac" is Ruth McDevitt, giving a standout performance. Patti Page's "Dawggy in the Window" (released almost 2 years ago) still is No. 2 seller among kiddie records. Josie Reed of the Two-a-Day is reaching a comeback via teesie and radio. Walter Slezak, one of the stars of "Fanny," is also a $6,000 hucker. Imogene Core is an "angel" for the Farina Kit show. "Mrs. Patterson" ... Doreen's new hillbilly recording star, Eve Summers, is Mary (Mrs. Les Paul) Ford's sister. Two of the 7 Brides (in the film hit by that title) are in "Fanny." Norma Doreget and Betty Carr. So is Nella Ates, the navel-dancer, whose name in Turkish means "sunset fire."

The Kodakites: "Brigadoon," a melodious dazzler, is made of rainbows, moonbeams and stardust. Radiated by Gene Kelly and Cyd Charisse, Mr. Kelly's signboard is an eye-feast and Miss Charisse's figure is an entertainment in itself. "White Fire" concerns diamond smugglers who try to smuggle elches past the audience. "Romeo Cop" is a good shout-to-kill-drama paced by Robert Taylor and Janet Leigh's show-whiz. "The Gay Adventure" is adequate melodrama. "The Little Kidnappers" is one of its brighter entries. A whimsical-whimsical spoof. If you desire a definition of Droll, then witness the Britisher titled: "High and Dry." Sly as a wink. An unfortunate import from Italia "Hello, Elephant" should be titled "Goodbye, Entertainment."

Joan Rush Is Bride Of R. Singer

Miss Joan Rush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rush, of Belvidere, N.J., became the bride of Richard Singer, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Singer of Stroudsburg, Pa., on Sunday, September 12 at 2 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed in the Belvidere Methodist Church by Rev. Mr. Holland. The bride wore a royal blue street length dress with navy blue accessories and a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Carl Van Horn served as matron of honor for her sister. She wore a steel length dress of dusty rose with black accessories and a yellow rose corsage.

Ray Singer, of Stroudsburg, served as his brother's best man. The mothers of both the bride and the bridegroom wore navy blue with corsages of pink roses.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where a wedding cake and buffet luncheon was served to about 50 guests from Philadelphia, Elmira and Endicott, N.Y., Blairstown and Belvidere, N.J., Bangor and the Stroudsburgs.

The bride is employed by the Ideal Beauty Salon in Stroudsburg. The bridegroom is employed at the Hughes Printing Co., East Stroudsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Singer after a wedding trip through New York state and the White Mountains of Vermont will make their home in a newly furnished apartment in Stroudsburg.

Litterary Group At Davies' Home

Portland—The Literary Group of the Portland Woman's Club met at the home of Mrs. G. J. Davies on Wednesday afternoon for the first meeting of the club year. Mrs. Charles Hilbert, president, presided. Books were discussed and plans made for the coming year.

Refreshments were served to the following members: Mrs. Charles Hilbert, Mrs. Raymond Truesdale, Mrs. John Early, Mrs. Bert Truesdale, Mrs. E. L. Kennedy, Mrs. David R. Edwards, Mrs. Ethel Seeley, Mrs. Ernest Courtney, Mrs. Frank Gardner and the hostess Mrs. Davies.

The Oct. meeting of the group will be held at the home of Mrs. Bert Truesdale.

Membership Campaign For Community Concert Opens

Monroe Community Concerts membership campaign opens this morning with almost 60 volunteer canvassers prepared to furnish membership cards, entitling the holders to the whole series of concerts this winter, to anyone who wishes them.

The volunteer workers will meet tonight at 6:45 at the Penn-Stroud Hotel for further instructions in the campaign which will close on Saturday. No memberships will be sold after that time, and no individual tickets will be sold for concerts.

Anyone who wishes tickets must get them this week from a worker or at the headquarters which has been set up at the Penn-Stroud Hotel. Mrs. W. R. Levering, chairman of membership, has announced that the following are serving as volunteers:

Mrs. Charles Allen, Mrs. Beatrice Anthony, Carroll All, Miss Lois Bronner, Mrs. Floyd Bachman, Dr. Donald All, Miss Maxwell Cohen, Miss Marguerite Cramer, Miss Judy Cramer, Ennis Davis, Mrs. Melvin Dunn, Mrs. Edward Drake, Miss Frances Everett, Mrs. Lorraine Flagler, Mrs. Paul Fetherman, Mrs. Ruth B. Fryling, Miss Leila Flory, Mrs.

Classmates Honor Two At Stork Shower

Cresco—A stork shower was held Tuesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Price, in Cresco, when their daughter, Miss Youndale Price was hostess in honor of two of her former classmates—Mrs. Lovell Coffman, who was the former Mary Bender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bender, of Skypot; and Mrs. Harold Metzgar, who was the former Gloria Mader, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Mader, of Swiftwater.

Other members of the class, (Barrett High, 1929), friends and relatives at the party included: Alberta Malin, Eleanor Mikels, Joyce Metzgar, Gladys Mader, Shirley Coffman, Gertrude Metzgar, Mrs. Walter Coffman, Mrs. John Bender, Mrs. Elmer Mader, Mrs. Price, the two honored guests and the hostesses. Gifts were sent by the following who were invited but unable to attend: Verna Bender, Gail Young, Marian Stewart, and Mrs. Charles Metzgar.

The room was trimmed in yellow and pastel green, with streamers extending from the chandelier to the gift table, and a stork was also suspended from the center of the chandelier. Refreshments consisted of ice cream, iced tea and two cakes, one on which was a miniature pair of booties and the words, "Best Wishes to Mary and Gloria"; and nuts and mints in napkins pinned like diapers. The mothers-to-be were each given one of the miniature booties as a memento.

Mrs. Walter Coffman won the prize for a guessing game which entailed quite a bit of time and held the interest of the guests. The ribbon from the packages was tied together and passed around the circle of guests, with Joyce Metzgar "ending" up the train.

Dates Announced

Portland—Announcements at the meeting of the Fidelity Class of the Portland Presbyterian church included a demonstration at the home of Mrs. Edgar Dalborg, on Wednesday morning, September 22, at 9 with proceeds for the organ fund; and the Fall Presbyterial at Castanqua on Friday, Oct. 1.

Here's a new kind of ice-cream sundae. Peel, halve and core a fresh pear; fill each pear cavity with a small scoop of vanilla ice cream and top with chocolate sauce.

Open House For Scheirer Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. William Scheirer, of Harrison St., East Stroudsburg, were yesterday honored at an open house in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Dimmick on Milford Road.

Their children had cooperated in arranging the open house, including Ralph Scheirer, of East Stroudsburg, Jane Scheirer Hummel of Stroudsburg, and Althea Scheirer Jacobs of Washington, D. C. Their grandchildren too assisted in serving the steady stream of guests who filled the home from 2 until 5.

A sign in golden letters on the front porch greeted the guests. Bouquets of golden flowers and giant dahlias decorated the room. Tea and cakes, including a tiered wedding cake decorated in gold were served from a table on which golden candles and roses glowed. There were tables of gifts, all in gold, also, from their friends and relatives.

Mrs. Scheirer wore an orchid as they received their guests from Bethlehem and from many sections of the county.

PTA Board Plans Year Of Activity

Middle Smithfield—The executive board of the Middle Smithfield Parent Teachers Association met at the school last Thursday night to outline the program for the year, to discuss school lunches, and other phases of school activity. Executive meetings will be held the second Thursday of each month at 8 o'clock.

Parent Teachers Association meetings will be held on Monday nights with the exception of November when an open house is planned for Friday, November 12.

The first PTA meeting of the year will be held on Monday, September 27 at 8. The "Back to School" radio program recording will be played before the meeting. After the business meeting, slides of school activities in color will be shown.

A tea for the mothers of first grade pupils was planned for early in the year to help them become acquainted with the school, the teachers and each other.

During the discussion of the hot lunch program, Monday was set as the day when the children will be asked to pay for their lunches for the week. There will be 143 children to be fed. The hot lunches will be served beginning on Friday, October 1. Three mothers will be needed each day to help the cook. The kitchen has been painted and renovated it was announced.

Joan Place, corresponding secretary, asked that anyone knowing of persons in the school who needs get-well, sympathy, or congratulatory greetings to let her know.

A membership contest will be held in each of the school rooms.

Planned Parenthood Clinic Open

The Monroe Co. Planned Parenthood Clinic has reopened after the summer recess. The clinic, at 519 Sarah St., Stroudsburg, is open on Wednesdays from 12:30 to 2. It is sponsored by a local committee which is affiliated with the National Federation for Planned Parenthood.

The clinic is open to all married women in the area. Services include medical advice on child spacing to insure every child born being a wanted child, pre-natal conference, and referral service to childless couples who want children.

Mrs. Daniel Fisher

Easton Girl Is Bride Of Bangor Man

Bangor—Miss Bessie M. Coppola, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Coppola of 103 Spruce St., Easton, and Daniel Fisher, son of Mrs. Grace Fisher of 517 Broadway, Bangor, and the late Joseph Fisher, were married on Saturday at 1 at St. Anthony's Church in Easton. Rev. Carl Celjucci performed the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a bridal gown of French imported lace and nylon tulle over slipper satin with a high neckline trimmed with lace, a fitted lace bodice, long sleeves and a bouffant tiered skirt of lace trimmed with sequins, and ending in a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of imported silk illusion fell from a jeweled crown. She carried a prayer book of lace with white orchids and Stephanotis.

Miss Millie Coppola, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of gold nylon tulle over taffeta with a matching bolero. Her bouquet was of bronze chrysanthemums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Mary Ann Fisher, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Madeline Pateri and Miss Madlyn Senick, of Easton, all wore turquoise nylon tulle and crystal-embroidered tulle with matching boleros and carried cascade bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. They all wore tiaras to match their gowns.

Joseph Falcone of 725 Pennsylvania Ave., Bangor, was best man, and Anthony Falcone, Bangor; Angelo Sortino, Easton; and Michael Horn, Bangor, were ushers.

The altar was decorated with white pom-poms, snapdragons, gladioli and palms. Joanne Braso was organist and Lee Graef was soloist. A reception was held at the Eagles Home in Easton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher will make their home at 517 Broadway, Bangor, following their wedding trip. The bride is employed at Orr's Department Store, Easton. The bridegroom, a graduate of Bangor High School is employed by the Sheesley Supply Co. of Johns-

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, everybody should have plenty of energy for the new week since the chances are they didn't use any of it up this long and dripping weekend. The rose garden grows lush and high, the lawn furniture soaks up the sun, and all the chores you listed for the weekend are all un-done.

It's been so long since we had an altogether damp weekend that nobody seemed to know quite what to do with themselves except to clutter up the streets with traffic or the living room with papers.

No sue hprobenas faced relatives of the Scheirers who found plenty to keep themselves busy yesterday, at any rate, with the open house. As in any open house, there was the most going on in the kitchen. Doug Scheirer, back from 12 weeks boot training with

Sandra Fetherman Is Honored On Eighth Birthday

Bartonville—Sandra Fetherman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Fetherman, celebrated her eighth birthday on September 14 with a party at her home. A social time was enjoyed by the adults while games were played by the children. Refreshments featuring birthday cake were served.

Present were Sandra's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Ben Starnier, of Tannersville; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Norman Marsh of Bartonville; Mrs. Robert Martin and children, Prudy and Joe, Mr. and Mrs. George Hiller and daughters, Louise and Barbara of Stroudsburg; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller and sons, Barry and Floyd of Chipfield Drive; Mrs. Archer Law and children, Margaret, Marian and Donald, and Miss Fannie Melhuish of Tannersville, Mrs. Al Gerlinger, of Swiftwater, Mr. and Mrs. William Fetherman and daughter, Sandra.

Sandra is a pupil in Miss Mary Shiffer's third grade at the Hamilton Elementary School, in Scio.

Girl Scouts Welcome 12 New Leaders

The executive board of the Girl Scout Council of Monroe County initiated a new season of activity by approving 12 new leaders, planning for the opening of the calendar sales and the annual Fall dinner meeting of the full council.

Mrs. Harold C. Edwards, past president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. LeRoy Koehler. The meeting was held at the Girl Scout House on Sarah Street.

Mrs. Camille Harvey, director of the Day Camp at Camp Lloyd Treble reported 201 campers this year, with 133 having four days or more at camp. There was a staff of 15, and six overnight camps were held with 75 intermediates taking part.

The Girl Scout Calendar sales will begin in October with the calendars to be distributed on October 5.

October 7 was set as the night of the Girl Scout Council Dinner with Mrs. G. W. Wakefield as chairman of the planning committee.

Leadership training was planned with a round table of training committee members set for October 12 at 7:30. Regular meetings of the training committee will be held the third Monday of each month. There are 13 leaders planning to go to Camp Archbald on September 25 and 26 for training.

The board approved the following leaders: Miss Virginia Hess, Mrs. Paul Edinger, Mrs. Carroll Doll, Mrs. Theodore Price, Mrs. Robert Altomose, Mrs. Jay Snover, Mrs. Earl Bush, Mrs. David Toms, Miss Nina Kostina, Miss Harriett Garaventi and Mrs. Walter Werkheiser.

Fire Co. Aux. Banquet Set For October

Mt. Pocono—The monthly meeting of the auxiliary of the Pocono Mountains Fire Company was held on Tuesday night at the fire hall with Mrs. Gerold Possinger presiding. Tentative plans were discussed for Fall and Winter activities including the annual banquet. It was decided to hold the banquet on Thursday night, Oct. 28 at 7 at Harry Thorpe's Town House.

The president appointed Mrs. Harry Taylor as chairman of the entertainment committee; Mrs. John Regan, chairman of the decorating committee. Members are advised to call Mrs. Patrick Hogan, phone 6591, the secretary, after 4:30 in the afternoon to make reservation as cards are not to be sent this year. Further plans are to be discussed at the October meeting.

Mrs. Passante was welcomed as a new member. During the summer she kitchen and two of the smaller rooms had been newly painted. It was impossible to state the exact profit made during the carnival by the ladies as all bills had not been received. However from present indications it seemed to top the net of the previous year.

The following were appointed to serve on the October hospitality committee: Mrs. Alvah Meywin III, Mrs. Edgar Martin, Mrs. Gordon Marble and Mrs. Charlotte McGill.

At the close of the meeting a social hour was enjoyed with refreshments being served by Miss Marguerite Meizer, Mrs. Carol Keiper, Mrs. William Murray and Mrs. Edith Moscow.

Wesleyan Guild To Meet Tuesday

Bartonville—The Wesleyan Chapel Women's Society of Christian Service will hold their first meeting of the new season at the home of Mrs. Louis Landmesser, Wigwam Park on Thursday night, September 23.

Meetings for the year will be held on the fourth Thursday of each month at the homes of members. Officers of the society are: president, Mrs. James N. Canfield Jr.; vice president, Mrs. John Teada; secretary, Mrs. Wilson Lee; treasurer, Mrs. Stanley Heller.

Birthday Party For Mrs. Reinert

Bartonville—A birthday celebration was held on Thursday, September 9 in honor of Mrs. Ethel Reinert. At noon a picnic dinner and hot dog and hamburger roast was held at Roadside Rest. Afterward the party went to Mrs. Reinert's home for a social afternoon.

Those present were Mrs. Verdon Fralley, Mrs. Avon Doll and daughter, Linda, Mrs. Joseph Dunbar and daughter, Joanne, Mrs. Ethel Reinert, all of Bartonville; Mrs. Roy Paul of Appenzell; Mrs. Earl Sandt, Chipfield Drive; and Mrs. Fred Fralley and daughter, Nancy, of Stroudsburg RD 2.

RILEY

Sports Editor

FOOTBALL fans who live and work in either Stroudsburg or East Stroudsburg had plenty to shout about during the recent weekend, as both borough high schools came through with convincing football victories. Stroudsburg rolled over Lehigh on Friday night, 26-12, and East Stroudsburg flattened Slatton on Saturday, 20-6. Since Stroudsburg's win came on Friday and East Stroudsburg's on Saturday, we'll hash over the Gordon Giffels Field today and the one played at Slatton will come under discussion tomorrow.

Stroudsburg's victory came just about as easily as expected, although for a few fleeting moments it appeared as if the Mountaineers had been hit with Hurricane Lehigh. The Indians sent Lamar Semmel on a 67-yard scamper for a touchdown in the first play from scrimmage, much to the sorrow of many people who hadn't made their way beyond the ticket booth before the contest got underway.

But as soon as the Stroudsburg contingent got back down on earth it won pretty much as it pleased. Ben Jones, likeable backfield coach at Lehigh, was at the Slatton-East Stroudsburg game on Saturday and diagrammed the play that scored for Semmel, just to show this scribe what happened. To be honest with one and all, I was as much in the dark as to where the ball actually was as the entire Stroudsburg team.

Without giving the play away I might state that the ball was faked to everyone except the referee and wound up in Semmel's hands who took it on a big sweep around his own right end. Lehigh had several boys back from last season, but in many instances the Indians, like Stroudsburg, are battling along with players of very little experience. The T-formation now being used by Lehigh seemed to be too tough for the Indians in their opening game, after two years of single wing under the late Jim Myers. Otherwise the club displayed signs that it will improve with the progress of the season.

This reporter was impressed by the play of the Stroudsburg line, from end to end. I was particularly impressed with the manner in which Dave Nevil handled the left wing task. The manner in which he blocked the Lehigh kick in its own end zone and then fell on the ball for a touchdown was a real professional play. This is the same play which Nevil pulled in practice a couple of weeks ago and the result was six stitches around one eye. But Dave was ready to give it the old try once again and came through with flying colors.

Bill Morrison was another standout performer on the Stroudsburg forward wall. Nevil and Morrison were stars among stars, as the entire home town line played brilliantly. Paul "Doc" Lim, who has been forced to labor in the shadows of the outstanding Karl Weingartner in recent years, came into his own on Friday night and turned in a fine job of quarterbacking. His passing was good, the deception he exercised in the "T" was fine and the manner in which he directed the club couldn't be questioned.

Don Diebler should also be praised for his work at fullback. This was the first game in which Diebler had ever played fullback, switching from the right halfback post. Don Hayes and Harry Miller, a pair of sophomores, played well at the halfback posts. Although the backfield is comparatively green, the only thing it appears to lack at the present time is a break-away runner. This vacancy may be filled when Burt Kleinle, a senior, recovers from a leg injury and can play full time one again.

Stroudsburg's trouble in the early moments of the first period appeared to stem from two sources, namely the surprising start by Lehigh and first game jitters. Once the Mountaineers got squared away they became a solid organization that shows signs of improving with each game. If the Mountaineers escape injuries they can cause a lot of trouble in the Lehigh Valley League this season. Coach Jerry Stulgaitis was fortunate in the fact that he was able to play almost everyone on the squad. This develops experience and should help in future battles.

Bangor Opens Grid Season With Win Over Palmerton

Slaters Show Power In Victory, 18-7

PALMERTON — Dick Hess pitching and Louie Casciano catching coupled with some fine running by Duane Miller carried Bangor High School's grid machine to an 18-7 verdict over Palmerton High Saturday, here on the losing club's home field.

Bangor scored less than two minutes after the start of the second quarter. Bangor started a drive near the end of the first quarter when the Slaters drove from their own 40 yard line to the Palmerton seven when they lost the ball on a fumble by Duane Miller. However, they soon forced Palmerton to punt and Glen Heard ran back the punt to the Palmerton 20.

The quarter ended here and, on the second play of the second quarter, ter, Hess faded to his right and pitched a perfect pass to Casciano in the end zone. The play covered 22 yards. "Barney" Stenlake's try from placement for the extra point was blocked.

Bangor countered next again just after the start of the third quarter. Duane Miller returned the Palmerton kickoff from his own 18 to the Bangor 41. In two plays, Jack Stenlake and Hess made a first down on the Palmerton 49. On first down, Hess faded on the same pass play that scored previously and again pitched a perfect pass to Casciano. Casciano took the pass on the 25 yard line and scampered unimpeded over the goal line. Stenlake's try from placement this time was wide of its mark.

Palmerton scored just a few minutes later. On the first play following the ensuing kickoff, Palmerton's Joe Fernandez broke loose for a 37 yard scamper to the Bangor 17. Passing and running and the aid of a penalty against Bangor, Palmerton took the ball to the six but were thwarted there by a strong Bangor defensive line.

A five yard penalty set Bangor back to the one-yard line. Jack Williams' succeeding punt was partially blocked by a Palmerton linesman and carried only to the Bangor 18 and Larry Sillman ran it back to the 10. On the next play, Gerry Rehgr, Palmerton fullback, bucked the full distance for Palmerton's score. Dieter Wentz' try for the extra point but placement was good.

Bangor dominated the game from that point on, piling up considerable yardage with the running of Duane Miller, Heard, Stenlake, and Jimmy Freeman. On a drive which started from the middle stripe, Duane Miller plunged over from the one-yard line to score Bangor's last tally almost midway in the fourth quarter. Heard's rush for the extra point failed.

The Slaters exhibited a fine defense and strong passing and running attack. Although completing only two passes of five tries, both completions went for touchdowns. Duane Miller with some fine running highlighted the offense. Miller gained 96 yards rushing in 12 tries for an average of eight yards per try. Altogether, Bangor rushed for a net of 188 yards and passed for 71 yards. In their rushing, Bangor piled up 10 first downs to Palmerton's two. Palmerton completed four passes but only for a net gain of 15 yards.

Four College Grid Powers Hit Headlines

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Observers searching the first weekend's college football scores for some sign of a trend may find it today in the smashing victories rolled up by Oklahoma, Maryland, Texas and Georgia Tech.

These are four teams picked to battle Notre Dame for the year's mythical national honors. They not only won tough opening assignments, but did it impressively.

Until further evidence is in, it may be speculated that:

One—Teams now have been able to adjust themselves to the year-old limited substitution rule and the difference between the strong and not-so-strong will be defined more clearly.

Two—The season, as a result, may not produce the rash of upsets which marked the confused 1953 campaign from beginning to end.

The weekend was comparatively free of surprises, the only real eye-opener being Alabama's second straight defeat at the hands of Mississippi Southern Friday night. But this was something short of a shock down in the deep south where everybody knows Southern.

The big game Saturday was the skirmish between Oklahoma and California at Berkeley. The Sooners gave a crowd of 58,000 a demonstration of speed and alertness in downing the Golden Bears 27-13. It was the televised game of the week.

The Oklahoma, who defeated Maryland in the Orange Bowl last Jan. 1, took advantage of every California error and pushed to four touchdowns behind Gene Calame and Buddy Leake.

Maryland's 1953 national championships, with a new backfield striking force, intercepted five passes, recovered two fumbles and crushed a dazed Kentucky team 20-0. Georgia Tech pounced on seven of Tulane's nine fumbles to win 28-0. Texas, led by Charley Brewer, smashed 80, 62 and 92 yards to stun Louisiana State 20-6.

This is the Texas team which invades South Bend next Saturday to provide opening opposition for Notre Dame, generally picked to be No. 1 in the country at the end of the season. It's also the debut of young Terry Brennan, following in the footsteps of Rockne and Leahy as Notre Dame coach.

Football action explodes in all corners next weekend. Oklahoma is host to Texas Christian. Georgia Tech plays Florida. UCLA, which crushed San Diego, Navy 47-0, takes on Kansas. The Big Ten wars up with Michigan State at Iowa, Indiana at Ohio State and Illinois host to outside Penn State. Duke invades Pennsylvania for the east's best.

Monroe Beagle Club Features Large List Of Entries In Trial

A TOTAL OF 170 ENTRIES took part in the two-day all-age American Kennel Club sanctioned field trial held by the Monroe Beagle Club at its Maple-in-the-Pines grounds over the weekend.

The entire schedule of four classes was held despite rain and wet grounds most of the meet.

Yellow Creek Flame, owned by Stella Cook, Bloomingdale, N. J., won the 13-inch all-age bitch class, the first of two held Saturday. Biljo Babe, the property of William Kelso, Springfield, Del., was second, while third place went to Spring Ridge Sunset, owned by Irvin Stem Jr., Little York, N. J. Fourth place was awarded to Clarke's Ransom Cassie, belonging to James A. Clarks, Ransom, Pa., while reserve honors were won by Leigh Ina, owned by Wilbur G. Miller, Summit Hill.

Jack W., owned by Ferd A. Wetzel, Claymont, Del., won the 15-inch all-age dog class, while Meyer's Little Sport, property of T. S. Cooper, Coopersburg, came home second. Jackie of Jugtown Mountain, owned by Gerry McInerney, North Bergen, N. J., was third and Hereford Spot, property of A. S. Hiltbert, Sellersville, Pa., finished fourth. Reserve laurels went to Vernon Valley Jack, belonging to John Hosking, Hamburg, N. J.

Yesterday Lehigh Golden Boy, owned by John Klutzoritz, Walnutport, captured first place in the 13-inch all-age dog class, while Blackie Boy VIII, property of Herbert Piefer, Bethlehem, finishing second. Sixth Ave. Brownie, property of Frank Feltch, Berwick, was third, while Abbot of Almars, owned by Allen Lorah, Walnutport, finished fourth. Reserve award went to Cynwyd Sadist, property of Ed Stineman, South Fork, Pa.

Step Along Spark, owned by Paul Schultz, Narrowsburg, N. Y., was the pride of the 15-inch all-age bitch class yesterday afternoon. Newton's Kay, belonging to Lloyd Nelson, Muir, Pa., was second, and Leigh Nell, owned by Frank Wapinsky, St. Clair, came home third.

Fourth place went to Judy W., another Wetzel entry, and reserve honors were bestowed on Schaeffer's Peggy, owned by Fritz Scheneck, Auburn, Pa.

Each first place winner received a trophy and championship points were awarded to each of the first four finishers in each class. Judges for the two-day event were John Folk, Baltimore; Don Connell, West Grove, Pa.; Wilbur Guth, Macungie, and Erwin Stem, Little York, N. J.

Kent State Swamps Waynesburg, 26-0
KENT, Ohio, Sept. 19 (AP)—Mariano led Kent State to a 26-0 victory over Waynesburg, Pa., College last night in the first football game for the season for both.

Kent got 34 yards on the ground. Mariano piqued 151 of them. In the third quarter he ran off left tackle and romped 91 yards for a touchdown.

Carter Bout To Be Televised On Wednesday

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Joey Giardello, still hoping for a title shot at middleweight champ Bobo Olson, risks his No. 1 challenger rating Friday night at the Philadelphia Arena against Ralph (Tiger) Jones in one of the most important bouts on the week's slim boxing program.

Giardello was red hot after knocking out Garth Panter, Walt Cartier and Willie Troy, but was cooled off by Pierre Langlois last May. Philadelphia Joey barely got past Honest Bobby Jones in June and whipped Billy Kilgore July 7 in his last start.

Tiger Jones disappointed in late spring after hitting the headlines with a knockout of Bobby Dykes. The Yonkers, N. Y., middleweight was upset by Jacques Royer and Pedro Gonzales within a space of 10 days in May. Manager Bobby Melnick gave the Tiger a long lay-off after the two defeats.

The Giardello-Jones show is the second of the Friday night television (NBC) series the International Boxing Club is sending out of town while Madison Square Garden is occupied by an ice show.

Jimmy Carter gets the Wednesday TV date (CBS) from San Francisco although he doesn't get his chance to win back the lightweight crown from Paddy DeMarco. The champ had to pull out of the match due to an injury. Carter's opponent will be Freddie (Babe) Herman of Los Angeles.

Tony DeMarco, a fast rising young welter from Boston, tops the Saturday night show (ABC-TV) from the Boston Arena against Chris Christensen, The Danish champion who has won two out of three matches in this country including a victory over Billy Graham.

Two welterweight shows scramble for attention Monday night with Hector Constance-Chico Varona at Brooklyn's Eastern Parkway (ABC-TV) and Frankie Fernandez-Luther Rawlings at New York's St. Nicholas Arena (Dumont-TV).

Varona, a winner over Fernandez Aug. 23, boxes a sub in Constance, the newcomer from Trinidad, who takes the place of ailing Del Flanagan. Constance made his U. S. debut at Chicago on the same card with Yolande Pompey.

Fernandez will be making his third St. Nick's appearance in seven weeks when he faces Rawlings at Chicago. The Honolulu scrapper has lost only six of 27 starts.

Promoter Lester Krell re-opened at Hazleton, Pa., with Lulu Perez of Brooklyn and Jerry Drouin of Quebec Tuesday night.

SEIXAS DEFEATS TRABERT TO LAND PACIFIC TENNIS CROWN
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 19 (AP) — U. S. champion Vic Seixas today won the men's singles title of the 28th annual Pacific Southwest Tennis Tournament with a straight set victory over his Davis Cup teammate, Tony Trabert.

Seixas, of Philadelphia, added further emphasis to his win in the nationals at Forest Hills two weeks ago by trimming Trabert, of Cincinnati, 7-5, 6-3, 6-4.
Earlier the veteran Louise Brough won the women's singles by defeating high school girl Barbara Breit in a battle of Californians.
Seixas, 31, and Trabert, five years his junior and the national titlist in 1953, played fairly even through the first set until Seixas gained the first service break in the twelfth and final game.
The Philadelphia broke Trabert's service in the second game of the second set and that proved deciding. Tony scored only three points off Vic's service until the final game, which he forced to decide five times before losing.
Miss Brough won the first 6-3, then dropped a 6-4 set to the North Hollywood youngster, but came back to run off a quick 6-1 in the decider.
The doubles combination of Australia's Ken Hod and Lewis Roswall topped Seixas and Trabert 7-7, 9-7, 6-4 to successfully defend their title.
Miss Brough and Darlene Hard, Montebello, Calif., were defeated in the women's doubles by Dorothy Cheney, Santa Monica, Calif., and Julia Sampson, San Marino, Calif., 6-3, 6-4.

Crowe Keglers Fall Before Capuro's Fire

EASTON — Crowe's Insurance, East Stroudsburg's representative and one of the annual bowlers in the Delaware Valley Bowling League, opened the 1954-1955 season Saturday night by dropping a 3-1 decision to Capuro's Cities Service.

The match was roiled here on the Ficus Club alleys.
Crowe's club salvaged its lone point by winning the final game, after Capuro's club won the first two contests. The winning organization also picked up a point for total wood.

Only two 200 games were rolled, one on each team. Doug Hawk, Capuro's rolled a 203 in the first game, while Jack Darr, Crowe's, finished with a 201 in the final stanza.

Hawk and Darr rolled high matches for their clubs with 549 and 532 marks respectively.

Crowe's contingent was forced to bowl without Tom Sommers, a regular currently on the shelf with a hand injury.

Box score follows:

Crowe's (1)	Strikes	Spares	Points

Lions Score Sixth Straight Exhibition Football Victory

BUFFALO, N. Y., Sept. 19 (AP)—The champion Detroit Lions, scoring in every quarter, rolled up their sixth straight victory of the National Football League exhibition season by downing the Pittsburgh Steelers, 42-14, before more than 20,000 fans in Civic Stadium today.

The Steelers, who went down to their fifth defeat, got the ball rolling in the first quarter, scoring on Ray Matthews' plunge through the middle from the five-yard line before the game was more than six minutes old.

Detroit, however, bounced back after two exchanges, with Doak Walker running 30 yards to score on a pass from Bobby Layne.

In the second quarter, Layne went over from the five on a quarterback sneak.

The Steelers scored their last tally in the same period when Jim Flinck uncorked a 22-yarder to Captain Elbie Nickel who snared it on the goal line.

Nick Bokvacek did the toe honors for the Steelers and Walker for the Lions, both converting successfully every time.

Lewis Carpenter took command for the Lions in the second period as he scored from the 28-yard line. In the closing minutes of the quarter, guard Joe Schmidt recovered a Steeler fumble on the 15 and ran the distance.

Pittsburgh came back after half-time looking like a new team, but quickly ran out of gas as Detroit stopped a scoring bid inside the 10-yard line.

It was all over but the shouting as Tom Dubinski, replacing Bobby Layne at quarter, pitched two for the money to end Warren Dibble halfback "Jug" Grad in the third and fourth quarters.

HOW RECOIL MAY CAUSE A BRUISED CHEEKBONE

CHEEK SHOULD REST FIRMLY, NOT HARD, ON COMB

FACTORY GUNSTOCKS ARE MADE TO FIT AN AVERAGE SHOOTER'S PHYSICAL BUILD. THUS, A WIDE-CHEEKBONED SHOOTER MAY HAVE TO FORCE HIS CHEEK HARD AGAINST THE GUNSTOCK'S COMB WHEN SIGHTING. THE RESULT IS A JOLTED CHEEKBONE WHENEVER HE FIRES. AFTER A FEW SHOTS, HE BEGINS FLINCHING TO AVOID THE BRUISES.

SUCH GUNSTOCKS DON'T HAVE ENOUGH "DROP" AND MAY BE TOO SHORT. ADD LENGTH WITH A RECOIL PAD, OR HAVE A GUNSTOCK MAKER SHAPE THE WOOD UNTIL IT FITS YOUR CHEEK.

Little League Elects Officers

EAST STROUDSBURG Little League made plans for the 1955 season by applying for a franchise and electing officers for the coming campaign during a circuit meeting at the home of Dr. Evan C. Reese, 162 E. Brown St., East Stroudsburg, last night.

A total of 20 interested people attended the gathering.

The entire slate of officers was reelected. Reese will again serve as president; C. A. "Phil" Nauman, vice president; Henry Reader, secretary, and Cliff Lambert, treasurer.

It was announced that the league plans to operate two circuits once again, with four clubs in each league. There will be the regular Little League and the Minor League, for those boys unable to make the first named circuit.

Plans also call for improvements to the field such as resodding, installing lavatory facilities, sprinkling system and putting a roof over the first base bleachers.

All applications for 1955 Little League franchises must be made by October 31.

Gale Paces Regatta Field

WASHINGTON, Sept. 19 (AP)—Gale IV, heretofore the hard luck boat of the hydroplane parade, won the President's Cup Regatta today despite a spirited challenge by My Sweetie Dora, which salvaged some glory by capturing the final 15-mile heat of the three-heat event.

Gale IV, piloted by the 46-year-old veteran, Wild Bill Cantrell, smashed the regatta heat and lap records in winning the first heat yesterday. She repeated in the second heat today to insure her first major victory.

But Jack Bartlow, steering the Horace Dodge boat, My Sweetie Dora, cut loose in the final heat, beating Gale IV by over a half mile before a record crowd estimated by police at 100,000.

Gale IV, which is owned by Joseph Schenck of Detroit, set a new record for the 45-mile race distance, despite losing the final distance. Gale's average speed was 91.27 miles an hour, better than the 91.07 set by Su-Mo-Shun V last year.

Donora Out of Football Title Picture

By DICK HOENIG

HARRISBURG, Sept. 19 (AP)—Donora High, a school that didn't lose on the gridiron last year, to night is the first major conference champion to be eliminated from the 1954 title races.

The Washington County team, in the process of a complete rebuilding, has a record of no wins and two losses for the new campaign. Greensburg eliminated the Dragons from the WPIAL class "AA" race over the weekend, 37-14.

In 1953 Coach Jimmy Russell's eleven, with one of the best defenses in Pennsylvania schoolboy ranks, downed 10 straight opponents before a scoreless playoff with Har-Brack that resulted in co-champions. Last week Pittsburgh Westinghouse stunned Donora, 28-0, in an exhibition opener.

A single loss or tie in double "A" ranks drops a team from the title contention in the WPIAL. The victory gave Greensburg two straight in the league, a record equaled only by Penn High.

Elsewhere in the state the week-end saw defending champion Adams, Bellwood Antis and Conemaugh Twp. winning as expected in Western Conference contests; Schuylkill Haven, East Penn Twp., coming up with an eye opening triumph; Allentown edging past Reading; and Hazleton, Tamaqua, Altoona and Lansford all absorbing upset setbacks.

Nine double "A" games in the WPIAL saw seven teams beside Donora drop by the wayside. Twenty-five are left in the struggle for the crown including Har-Brack which opened with a non-league win over Pittsburgh North Catholic.

Eliminated this weekend were Trinity, Sharon, Vandergrift, Conestoga, Brownsville, Monongahela and Ellwood City.

Adams was held to a two-touchdown margin by Portage as the western champs ran up their 11th consecutive win over two years. Conemaugh Twp., beating Boswell 40-0, and Bellwood, whumping Moshannon Joint 30-0, gave stronger indication of pre-season notices that they were the chief title challengers. Lock Haven made its 1954 debut with an impressive 38-6 decision over neighboring State College.

The Allentown-Reading hit proved as tough a battle as predicted but Allentown came through with a late third period touchdown pass play that settled the game, 6-0. Reading still hasn't beaten the Canaries since 1940 and still has scored only six points in the last seven meetings.

In what was rated an even contest Schuylkill Haven trampled Minersville 35-0, the Hurricanes best effort in the 40 years history of the series. It was Haven's fourth victory in five years—all they've ever been able to win since the match was inaugurated in 1914.

The win was Haven's second convincing show in league warfare. Hazlet Twp. upended neighboring Hazleton, 25-12, a result duplicated only once in the last decade, Mount Carmel upset Tamaqua and McAdoo slipped past Lansford, 13-12, in other reversals.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

March 21 to April 30 (Aries)—Weighty programs ahead? Look ahead if necessary and take time to analyze situations thoroughly. Irritating spots can be smoothed out by patient, kindly consideration of all involved.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Today takes patience. But you have the strength to hold your ground. Your honest efforts, sound business, investments and your occupation favored. The progressive always.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Your nature is to push ahead, which is good, but today you may have to slow up and reflect. Mercury's position warns against reckless action, but gain can be had in sound business.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Progressive work should be directed on sound facts. Thorough study to insure best results. The times, methods, new inventions, etc., affect us all and we must be alert.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo)—Although the day may not be wholly stimulating for advancement in purely mental activities, it is favorable for physical work, for sound building, higher and other similar interests.

August 24 to October 20 (Libra)—Instructors, leaders in our armed forces, technical experts in radar, electronics, aviation, aeronautics and other, kind of the government can advance now. Good rays generally.

October 21 to November 21 (Scorpio)—A day is favorable but a few don't can help make it more so. Don't lose your temper. Your rash or procrastinate and you will put your schedule over and find fewer opportunities.

November 22 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Your Jupiter, splendid aspect should help to make your day a favorable one as it advances. "Flare" rays have to do with money. Fine rays abound and you should do well.

January 23 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Keep eyes and ears alert. Some favorable changes and new opportunities are indicated. Engineers, today's engineers, builders, miners among today's favored. You can gain.

February 21 to March 30 (Pisces)—Similar tendencies to Scorpio today. Perhaps a good "money" day so be alert to advantages, sound offers. The day may not be wholly stimulating, but don't miss out by waiting too long.

March 31 to April 30 (Aries)—You born today are innately intelligent, well-balanced, evenly tempered and just. You have the artistic and mechanical ability, could be a splendid lawyer, actor or do equally as well in a number of other professions where skill, craftsmanship and accuracy are essential. You are individual in your manner. Your good taste is apparent and you particularly like harmonious surroundings, system and order. In all things you may be considered "fancy" but you are broadminded and not given to mean squabbles.

Soviets Try To Wreck Ike's A-Plan

By TOM WHITNEY

THE SOVIETS are attempting to counter the propaganda effect of President Eisenhower's plan for an international atom for peace pool by labeling it a fake.

It's a front, Pravda declared a few days ago, intended to distract the attention of world public opinion from the fact the United States—in Pravda's words—is continuing intensive preparations for atomic war.

The Soviet paper in a brief article laid down the line which the Soviet propaganda machine will use in attempting to discredit the President's project throughout the world.

The inauguration of the Eisenhower plan is going to pose a serious problem for the Kremlin.

For years the Russians have been claiming with considerable effect in some places that it is the United States which is responsible for the atomic arms race, that while the U.S. government makes ready for atomic war the Soviet government directs a large part of its energy to seeking peaceful uses of atomic energy.

President Eisenhower's concept in making his proposals last Dec. 8 in the U.N. for international cooperation in peacetime atomic work was that the countries which have atomic materials and experience should make them available to other nations. He specifically included the Soviet Union as a participant along with the United States. Confidential talks were held by the U.S. government and the Soviet government earlier this year to try to work this idea out, but there was no agreement. The talks broke down basically over the Soviet stand that any such arrangement should be accompanied by a general prohibition on any use of atomic and hydrogen weapons.

The President announced in Denver Sept. 6 that the United States and some other countries are going to proceed with the atom for peace plan anyway without the USSR.

This puts the Russians on the spot.

As the United States proceeds with the Eisenhower plan more and more nations are likely to benefit from it.

This is going to make it harder and harder for the Communists to maintain their thesis that the United States is only occupied with war uses of atomic energy.

Furthermore a lot of people are going to ask why if the Russians are so busy in developing peacetime uses of atomic energy they are unwilling to share their knowledge and materials with other countries.

Fair Play Is Pledged By Mikels

LEROY MIKELS, Stroudsburg Republican nominee for Congress in the 15th Congressional District consisting of Monroe, Carbon and Northampton Counties has signed the "fair play pledge" submitted to all candidates by the Fair Campaign Practices Committee, Inc., of New York.

Mr. Mikels is one of many candidates for office who has signed the pledge. In doing so he advised the committee and publicly announced:

"I will conduct the campaign for election to Congress on a common-sense, honest and decent level. I will not resort to misleading statements, to vilification, smear tactics or character attacks to win public office. Those things are the infamous and outmoded tools of the past politician.

"The conduct of government today is serious business, big business. It demands honest men willing and able to service the public—not buffoons.

"There are still some people who subscribe to the dubious belief that they entertain the people by daubing with the brush of lies and invectives. I do not and will not subscribe to that belief. Entertainment, if you call it that, is not part of good government."

Rosalie Fonte Is Named Miss Reading Fair

READING, Pa., Sept. 19 (AP)—Rosalie Fonte, a home town girl having a third try at the title, rules today as Miss Reading Fair. She won out over 30 other contestants from three states in a beauty contest last night at the Reading Fair.

A cash award of $1,000 is part of the honors.

Second and third placers were Diane Gemmill and Barbara Miller, both of Philadelphia.

Miss Fonte, 19-year-old payroll clerk, is brown-eyed with hair to match, five feet, four inches tall and 115 pounds.

Show Greater Optimism Than GOP

Lawrence predicted a gain of six House seats for the Democrats, which contrasted to the previous prediction of G. Mason Owlett, Republican national committeeman, that the GOP would gain four seats in the state.

Former Gov. John Battle of Virginia said he thinks the Democrats will knock off at least two of the three House Republicans from Virginia.

Paul M. Butler, Indiana national committeeman, said he is confident his state will increase its Democratic representation in the House to five members. GOP Indiana members now outnumber Democrats 10-1 and even some Republicans said privately at their recent national committee meeting they fear they might lose ground in the state.

Rep. Michael W. Kirwin, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, said his home state of Ohio is going to give the Democrats five or six more House seats than the six they now hold. The Republicans have 17 House seats in Ohio.

Michael V. Disalle, former price administrator, gave Democratic Sen. Thomas A. Burke a "good chance" to defeat Rep. George Bender, the Republican nominee. Some Republicans are known to be worrying about Bender's chances of election and expect a close race.

James Ronan of Illinois saw a "definite trend cooking" in his state for the Democrats.

In Michigan, Mrs. Margaret Price, national committeewoman, gave Democrat Patrick McNamara a "A chance" to defeat Republican Sen. Homer Ferguson.

Mrs. Douglas P. Hunt, national committee woman from Minnesota, said she feels the Democrats "can't lose" in her home state's senatorial race, and will pick up two or more House seats from the Republicans.

Women Show World Now Not All Man's

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK, Sept. 19 (AP)—Women showed last week that it's far from being a man's world.

A 64-year-old grandmother returned to New York after a 10,000-mile tour of Europe, 2,300 miles of it covered by bicycle.

Showing just as much calmness, though making a shorter trip, was an 82-year-old Philadelphia woman. In her ancient coupe she suddenly shot out of a service station and across a busy street, grazed several cars, scattered pedestrians and came to rest against smashed windows of another service station. Said she: "Gas pedal must have stuck."

In Dewey, Okla., a new pupil presented his teacher with a perfume bottle. She beamed, thanked him, and asked what it was. "Rat poison," he said. She sniffed. It was.

Despite such incidents, women continued to like men.

In Spartanburg, S.C., a young lady coaxed a young fellow into going shopping with her at a supermarket. They collected about $25 worth of groceries in a basket but were detained by the manager when it came time to pay. The young lady was three years old, the young man just four.

In New York a slightly older lady, aged 30, decided to end it all and teetered on the edge of a tenth floor window while her husband pleaded with her not to jump. Into the apartment stepped a wise cop. Winking at the husband, he suddenly seized him and snarled, "It's all your fault! I'm going to lock you up for this!" The wife swung away from the window, crying, "No! It's not his fault! End of suicide attempt."
